Towards better mental health

About Us

Pathways SouthWest is an independent community based mental health service located in the SouthWest of Western Australia. We provide support, education and advocacy to people with lived or living experience of mental issues, their families and carers in our region

We support our local communities to embrace the concept of mental health wellbeing via community consultation, education and advocacy

Pathways SouthWest will provide a safe workplace and culture, demonstrate financial responsibility and good governance in all its operations

Pathways SouthWest recognise those with lived or living experience of mental health issues in the South West

We acknowledge that we can only provide quality care through valuing, respecting, and drawing upon the lived experience and expert knowledge of consumers, their families, carers, and their communities in the design and delivery of appropriate services

Pathways SouthWest acknowledges the traditional owners of the lands on which we meet and where we provide our services, the Wardandi People

We pay our respects to their Elders, past, present and emerging and acknowledge the important role Noongar people continue to play within our community
